It features the latest battery technology and uses Agrade components that meet or exceed the original manufacturers specifications, ensuring that you get to use your camera for longer. This battery is supplied with a two year warranty. Batteries with higher mAh values will in theory last longer between charges, which in turn should mean they have a longer working life before performance deteriorates. Q. What does Liion mean A. The term Liion is an abbreviation of Lithiumion. Lithiumion are the batteries of choice in most current digital cameras, camcorders and mobile phones. They are quick to charge, relatively light in weight, and deliver longlasting power. Where we state that the battery is nonoem, it means that we are not claiming to be selling the original manufacturers battery but a generic battery which performs in exactly the same way. Q. The voltage on your battery is higher than my existing battery, does this matter A. The voltage can vary from battery to battery. Our batteries may have slightly higher or lower voltage than that of your original battery. It will not hurt your camera if ours is higher or lower but obviously, you will want it to be as high as possible in comparison to your original battery.

Ours are usually slightly higher which will not affect your camera but allow your camera to receive slightly more power. Q. The mah on your battery is higher than my existing battery, does this matter A. Our batteries can often have a higher mah than the original manufactures batteries, it does matter but in a good way. The higher the mah the better. The higher the mah, the more power you have in your camera and the longer you can shoot for. Q. If I order this now, when will it be dispatched A. If you place your order before 4pm on a week day, we will despatch your order the sameday. If you order after 4pm on a Friday, on Saturday or on Sunday, your order will be despatched the following Monday morning. Q. Is this battery brand new A. Yes, all of our products are brand new and come boxed straight from our manufacturers. Q. How do I know if this battery is compatible with my camera A. There are several ways of checking compatibility; we display the compatibility for each battery on the product page. They also come with a two year warranty to reassure you of the quality. Q. Why are your camera battery prices so low A. We source direct from the manufacturer which allows us to pass on the savings to you, the customer. With digiQuick.co.uk, you are paying for the battery, not the brand and the associated marketing costs incurred by the big manufacturers. Q. How long will the battery keep its charge A. This is difficult to answer as people use their cameras so differently. The best thing to do is to compare power ratings mah of our battery with your current battery and you should then be able to gauge a rough expectancy for the length of time this battery will keep its charge. Q. How many shots will I be able to take with this battery A. This is difficult to answer as people use their cameras so differently. A replacement item will be provided for any defective, damaged on receipt.

Records inside the car as well as out. Video is stored on smartphone, not the device. Easy to use app. Erases clips after a day. Pricey, especially with LTE plan. It has some cool features like twoway talk, an inside camera, and remote camera access. It's certainly innovative, but it's missing some key features that we would expect at this price. That said, we're excited to see how the Owl Car Cam evolves. SEE ALSO The Best VPN Services For 2020 After some web sleuthing, I found it near the hood release latch on the 2018 Subaru Crosstrek I was driving. The car manual mentioned nothing about the OBD II port, but Owl includes thorough instructions on the installation process and lists the most common locations for the port. All cars made after 1996 have this port, except for the Tesla 3. After plugging the cam in, I downloaded the app available for both iOS and Android devices and paired my iPhone with it by pointing the phone's camera at a QR code on the dash cam's display. The power cable links magnetically to the device, which in turn also attaches magnetically to the mount.

Shaped a bit like a squeegee, the mount sits on top of the dashboard and is affixed to the windshield with a small suction cup, meaning it sits lower than most dash cams. That positioning means it's not too distracting, especially if you place it between the driver and passenger seats, as I did. The box includes a tool to help push the wire between the vehicles trim and windshield as well as cable ties to keep it secure. If you dont have cell coverage, you can still save clips, and theyll transfer over when you get service back. To compare, the ROAV by Anker Dash Cam C1s screen is also 2.4 inches, whereas the tiny one on the Cobra CDR 855 BT is just 2 inches. It wasnt enough to obscure signage and license plates, though. You can record inside the car too, in case you want to monitor your teens driving or if you work for a ridesharing service and want to record any incidents. Dont live stream the footage like this guy, please. Swipe down to turn off the inside camera for the duration of a trip or go into the app settings to disable it altogether. I received a few motionbased alerts when I was inside a grocery store, but it was just people parking and walking past the car. You can change the types of alerts you receive in the apps settings. Getting it to work correctly took a few tries, but eventually worked reliably. From the app, you can see the inside or outside of the car, and even activate the speaker to talk to someone inside the car whether its a burglar or someone waiting for you. The audio is loud and clear on both ends. You can edit and share saved video clips from the app by sliding a yellow edit box to trim the length and pinching to zoom in. If someone steals the device, youll have a picture of the thief for police and Owl will replace your camera at their discretion for up to three years after purchase. Note, though, that the unit shuts down after not being used for about 24 hours. This will be extended to 72 hours in an upcoming software release.

It monitors your car even when its off, but only for about 24 hours until the previously mentioned software release extends this to 72 hours, so it cant help if you park your car on a city street for days at a time. That said, it has potential, and Im excited to see how the company updates this device down the road. For now, its best for early adopters. Creative Live Cam IP SmartHD Cam app from IP SmartHD.
